

June 27, 2014

O, say can you see? Hotels are ideal spots for watching Fourth of July fireworks

Do you have a prime viewing spot picked out yet for when the dahlias, crossettes, kamuros, and other aerial pyrotechnics light up the night sky this Fourth of July? If not, you might want to consider a hotel. Many of them, especially the high-rise hotels, have a patio, bar, or other ideal spot for watching the fireworks display—and you don't even necessarily have to check in. Here are some prime examples.

The James, New York City, NY

One of NYC's favorite rooftops is Jimmy at the chic James hotel. Offering 360-degree views of the Manhattan skyline, it affords grand views of the fireworks display that takes place on the East River. In addition to hopping tunes played throughout the night and a snack menu featuring the likes of mini grilled cheese and Kobe franks in a blanket, Jimmy's will be serving a special Fourth of July-inspired drink called the M-80 Swizzle.

www.jameshotels.com/new-york